Erik Tomalis (Duquesne)

Erik is a proven fundraising professional and has always been forward thinking, donor and people driven, but most of all results oriented. With 20+ years of professional fundraising experience, Erik made over 5,000 face-to-face donor solicitations where he has raised millions of dollars for many non-profit organizations, including areas of: healthcare, education, human services, Greek, university athletics and youth-based organizations. He served as a front-line fundraiser, as well as a senior executive in transformative organizations focused on generosity, such as Sigma Nu Educational Foundation, St. Jude Children's Hospital, the Boy Scouts of America and the Allegheny Health Network.

Recently, Erik served as Chief Evangelist at Virtuous – a Responsive Fundraising technology platform designed to help nonprofits grow generosity by creating personal and meaningful connections with their supporters. Their mission is to inspire generosity and improve donor retention through innovative technology that enables nonprofits to build stronger, lasting relationships.

Today, Erik serves as Chief Revenue Officer at Avid AI. Avid AI is a donor orchestration platform dedicated to empowering nonprofits by transforming donor data into actionable insights, thereby enhancing fundraising efforts. Avid AI's platform aggregates data from various sources, including CRMs, email platforms, and social media, unifying this information into a single, intuitive dashboard. By leveraging artificial intelligence, Avid AI maps the entire donor journey, categorizes behaviors across critical stages, and provides predictive insights to identify growth opportunities.

Erik is committed to helping nonprofits grow global generosity. He believes that charitable giving is about personal connections, not transactions. Generosity is driven by our passions and relationships – and givers want to feel like they are part of a movement bigger than themselves. Through his experience, Erik fully understands the ways to be successful in your non-profit organization and career. Erik resides in the Pittsburgh area with his wife, Kate and their excited sheltie puppies (Winnie & Willett). He is a graduate of Duquesne University and the Lilly School of Philanthropy.

Erik served the Kappa Delta Chapter as Treasurer, Lt. Commander, LEAD chairman, and Collegiate Grand Councilman. He was IFC President for two consecutive terms and served on student leadership on campus. Erik is a past Division Commander for the Fraternity's Great Lakes Beta Division. He served the General Fraternity & Foundation staff team from 2002 – 2010; as Leadership Consultant (2003), Director of Development (2003-2006) and Senior Vice President (2006-2010); and is a long-time Omega Society member.

He is an Eagle Scout and active in the community as he is an active board member or volunteer for the following organizations: Association of Fundraising Professionals Global, Verland, Fundraising.AI Advisory Board, Boy Scouts of America, the Giving Institute, Children's Advocacy Center, and many more. In his free time, Erik is a die-hard Duquesne Basketball and Pittsburgh sports fan; he enjoys skiing, trapshooting, outdoor activities, and spending time with family and friends.
